Non-Student Progress Notes
Do not require Co-signature

Workflow for Sending a PowerNote for Co-signature:

When the author (midlevel provider, resident, or medical student) creates a PowerNote, the signature process prompts the author to “request endorsement” by forwarding the note to the supervising physician for authentication.

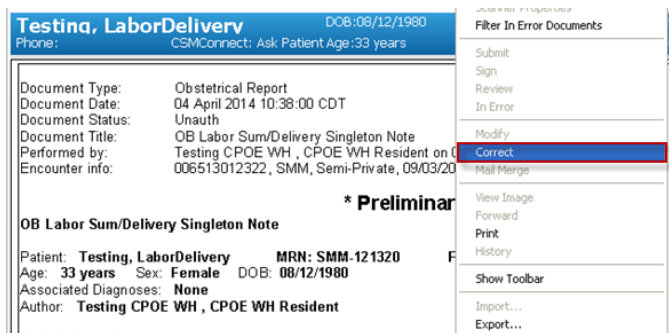

NOTE: If appropriate, the Request Endorsement flag can be removed IF that document may be signed without co-signature (e.g.: non-student progress notes).

Supervising Physician Workflow for Co-signing a PowerNote:

The supervising physician can access The PowerNote from Message Center, Documents, or PowerNote List.

The option to Correct the note is now available to the supervising physician. Correct opens the PowerNote structure and allows correction within the body of the note prior to supervising physician signature.

Right-clicking the preliminary document and selecting Correct will open the document in PowerNote. The note can be modified prior to authentication.

The supervising physician will have ONE opportunity to make any corrections and sign the document. After initial supervising physician signature, there is then only the option to “modify” the note with an addendum.

Viewing previous Versions of the PowerNote:

- Right-Click the note and select History.
- Select the version of the note to open.
